

ABOUT US

With a view to change the world, we at ACGJ provide to its scholars a deeper understanding on the under currents that govern our society. The Army Institute of Law Centre for Gender Justice entails to end or at least tries to end the inequalities and provide redressal for existing ones.

We at ACGJ aim to promote equality and equity among all genders, and make the college and the society, a more progressive environment to live in. We believe that awareness, education, and advocacy are key steps in the journey toward gender justice. Gender equality is a human right. We aim at increasing access to this right to all sections of society. Our work is led by a fundamental need to understand the deep-rooted causes and intersectionality of the existing disparities. We at ACGJ are a dedicated team, who are personal advocates of the need for a dismantling of patriarchal structures to create a just, equitable and fair society for all.
